Inez Claims
23 Lives in Mexico Area

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP) — Mexico's unofficial death toll from Hurricane Inez stood at 23 today as thousands of others sought high ground, rooftops of trees to escape swirling flood waters unleashed by the storm.

Fifteen members of a rescue team drowned Wednesday when their boat overturned in the turbulent Tamesi River north of Tampico. Eight others were reported dead in the Gonzalez-Manuel area.

The total unofficial death toll from the hurricane, which roamed the Caribbean for 18 days before hitting mainland Mexico Monday, stood at 231, including five Cubans reported Wednesday.

Unofficial damage estimates range as high as $16 million for Mexico, with $24 million in the Tampico area. An extensive area of Tampico is without water. Food is scarce. There is no electricity or telephone service.

WASHINGTON — One of the oddest election campaigns in America's political history will falter in an uncertain end in less than four weeks. It has been a peculiar election because the deep underlying concerns and discussions have found so little expression in the give-and-take of campaign oratory.

The war in Margalo Chida Viet Nam, the growing hostility between Negroes and whites, crime and violence — these nagging worries have been muffled. The candidates are talking about effects rather than causes.

The Democrats stress more control of the executive branch government and with large Democratic majorities in the Senate and House.

Increasingly, with huge spending by the federal government, conspicuously the $60 billion for the Department of Defense — this power can hardly be exaggerated.

First-term Democrats' marginal seats have benefited by a constant flow of post offices, rehabilitation projects, government contracts of various kinds, dams and harbors. The thing, in other words, the barrel has been full to overflowing.

The crop of first-termers out of '94 went in many instances exceptionally able. They knew how to take advantage of the favors passed out by Washington and the federal government.

Handicap

TORONTO (AP)—In keeping with the fashion dictates for the day, 8-year-old Mary Dervines has been awarded $2,000 for a knee scar she received three years ago when hit by a car driven by George Beard. Judge F. G. J. McDonough found she was 20 per cent negligent, he 80 per cent at fault, and ruled that because skirts are getting higher the scar might handicap Mary's future.

House Damaged

SHOSHONE—Considerable damage resulted to a two-bedroom frame house occupied by Jess Palmer, when fire broke out behind an oil stove about 11 a.m. Wednesday.

The wall behind the stove was burned through and considerable damage resulted to the interior of the house and furnishings. Palmer was fishing at the time, Shoshone City Volunteer Fire Crew answered the call alerted by a neighbor woman who saw the smoke.

Carol Fuller, Wells Exchange Nuptial Vows

In a double ring ceremony solemnized Aug. 27 at the First Baptist Church, Twin Falls, by Rev. Gaylord Hasselblad, Carol Ann Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Fuller, became the bride of Jonathan L. Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wells, all Twin Falls.

Vows were exchanged before a setting of tall baskets of lavender and white gladioli, with white satin bows and tiered candelabra with white tapers.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a floor-length white satin gown featuring a fitted bodice with long, thin, pointed sleeves and a subtle neckline. The full skirt flowed into a brief chapel train. The bride designed her gown and it was made by her mother. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held by a small crown of seed pearls and rhinestones.

Her only jewelry was a heart-shaped locket, her father's gift to her mother before they were married. She carried a bouquet of four carnations, encircled with white pampas and cascading satin ribbons on a gold chain.

Eva Beth Fuller, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Ellen Fuller, sister of the bride, and Angela Wells, sister of the bridegroom, and Loraine Cole.

David Wells, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Robin Wells, brother of the bridegroom, and George Wells, cousin of the bridegroom.

Constance Beeson, Twin Falls, and Terri Moser, Genesee, lighted the candles. Gary Beeson and Keith Beeson, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Beeson, carried the rings on heart-shaped pillows designed and made by Mrs. George Fuller, grandmother of the bride.

Kristen Keller, cousin of the bridegroom, marked the bride's path with rose petals.

Music featured a double quartet from the church and solo by Angela Wells and David Wells. Mrs. Franklin McMullin accompanied the vocal numbers at the piano and Mrs. Lillian Wells, sister of the bride, accompanied by Mrs. Ches.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown fashioned of lace and satin. The bodice was fitted with the large, full skirt flowing into a chapel train. The fullness of the skirt was held in place with a large hoop. The neckline was scalloped with seed pearls and sequin trimming.

A double tiera held her shoulder-length veil in place. The veil was trimmed with three rows of illusion lace.

Her bridal bouquet was designed of large cascades of white carnations centered with a white orchid.

Honor attendant was Sharon Wilson. Pat Haran and Evelyn Vaden were bridesmaids. Theresa Platz was flower girl. Fred Platz was best man. John Jones and Rickie Jones were candle-bearers. Ushers were Norman Bayless and John Taylor.

The reception was held at the ceremony at the church followed by a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Lela Jones registered guests.

In charge of the gift table were Mrs. Raymon Pratt, Gooding, and Joyce Kay, assisted by Cathy Jones and Marjorie Jones.

The bride's table was covered with lace over lavender. The four-tiered wedding cake centered the setting.

Swisher Tells Views During Burley Meet

BURLEY — A "physical fitness" program will yield increased income for Idaho, independent candidate for governor Perry Swisher said in a Burley speech Wednesday night.

Swisher outlined his program of physical changes in the Idaho landscape at a meeting of the Cassia-Duka-Central Labor Council.

Among other things, the state legislator proposed charters for commodity groups to run their own marketing programs; new crop research to take advantage of recently reduced freight rates; a 1967 start on authorization of state water projects and "new dealings" for all major water projects.

Ex-Officers Arrested in Moscow Theft

MOSCOW (AP) — Two young former lieutenants in the U.S. Army have been arrested on a charge of stealing an antique statue of a bear from a Leningrad hotel, the U. S. Embassy reported today.

The embassy identified them as Buel Wortham of North Little Rock, Ark., and Craddock Gilmore of Montclair, N.J.

Gilmore's parents live in Salt Lake City, Utah.

The two Americans were arrested Oct. 1 at the Finnish border as they were driving out of the Soviet Union. An embassy spokesman said the bear statue was allegedly discovered in their effects during customs examination.

The charge against them was defined by the embassy as aggravated theft. The section of the Soviet criminal code involved refers to theft "by a group of persons in accordance with a preliminary agreement."

An embassy consular officer, Harlan Moon, visited them in Leningrad Tuesday.

He found them well but they said their terms of confinement were trying. They have been separated in solitary confinement cells.

The investigating officer told Moon that he would look into arranging for the two men to have contact with English speaking persons.

There was no indication how long the investigation might go on or whether the men would be put on trial.

Beating Takes Life of Union Aide

NEW YORK (AP) — A union official was beaten to death Wednesday night as he walked with his dog near his Flushing, Queens, home.

Police were searching for a well-groomed man wearing a shirt with a ruffled front who neighbors said stood over the victim and beat him in the head before fleeing in a black and white auto.

The dead man was identified as James P. Fox, 62, union agent for Local 686, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

Fox died at Flushing Hospital while undergoing surgery for head wounds.

The scene of the attack was a middle-class residential neighborhood of one- and two-family homes about 30 minutes from Times Square by subway.

Detectives said no motive was immediately apparent.

Indira Gandhi Defied British Rulers At Age of 12 With 'Monkey Brigade'

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — "made baton charges to restore When she was 12, Indira Gandhi formed a "monkey brigade" of school children who carried messages for Indian leaders in defiance of the British rulers.

Today, India's students are on the rampage from one end of the country to the other, threatening law and order, and posing the current No. 1 problem for Mrs. Gandhi, now prime minister.

Riots, marches and strikes have occurred on and off the campuses in nearly all 16 states in recent weeks.

While Mrs. Gandhi paid a four-day visit to Nepal, students attacked government vehicles, railway property, university officials and police. Officers fired rifle and tear gas and

A number of government officials blame the violence on agitation by opposition political groups seeking to discredit the ruling Congress party before elections next February. Students can vote at 18.

Much of the student violence results from frivolity that gets out of hand. Student strikes have been called because one group felt an examination professor was too strict, or because a medical examination was made compulsory for first-year students.

The danger is that the students are learning the power of their mass protests.

2 American Professors Get Nobel Medicine Prize

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Two American professors today were jointly awarded the 1966 Nobel Prize for Medicine. They were Dr. Peyton Rous, 67, of the Rockefeller University, New York, and Dr. Charles B. Huggins, 66, of Chicago University Hospital.

Rous, a native of Baltimore, received his medical degree from Johns Hopkins University in 1900. Since 1909 he has been connected with the Rockefeller University, formerly known as Rockefeller Institute.

Huggins is a native of Halifax, N.S. He was graduated from Harvard Medical School in 1923 and holds degrees from several schools. He has been at the University of Chicago since 1927.

He has been director of the Ben May Laboratory for Cancer Research since 1951.

Huggins is a specialist in studies of the male urogenital tract, cancer of the prostate, and mammary cancer. He is a native of Connecticut, is married and has two children.

Rous is a world-famed pathologist and specialist within the field of viruses, as causative agents of cancer, mode of action of carcinogens, which are factors involved in the invasive growth of cancer, the Swedish Medical College said.

The selection by the Carolina Medical College is the first of five Nobel awards in its annual schools. He has been at the University of Chicago since 1927.

Each carries a cash prize of about $60,000 from the fund established by the will of Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite, a gold medal and enormous prestige.

The literature prize will be awarded Oct. 20 by the Swedish Academy of Letters, the physics and chemistry prizes Nov. 4 by the Royal Academy of Science.

The fifth prize, for contributions to peace, will be awarded by the Norwegian Parliament.

Rous is married and has three daughters. One of them, Marion, is married to Britton Alan Lloyd Hodgkin of Cambridge University, who shared the 1963 Nobel Prize for Medicine.

In 1930, Rous discovered the first virus that evokes malignant growths of the sarcoma type in hens. He managed to isolate that virus and kept it alive by letting it pass through fertilized hen's eggs.

His discovery of hen tumors was immediately corroborated by many laboratories but was not reproduced in initial experiments with mice and rats.

Thus the thought of viruses playing a part in the process of tumor growths died out.

Rous discontinued his research in the field in 1915, but the "seeds" he had planted were to grow up later.

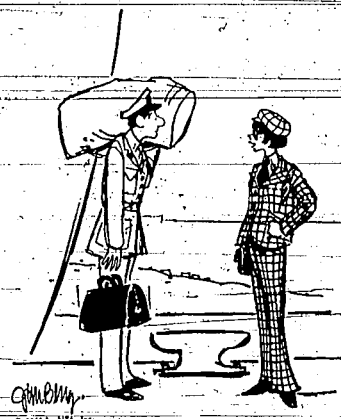

New developments followed in the early 1930s through Rockefeller Institute research and then it was discovered that a micro virus could evoke cancer of the breast.

The virus-cancer theory, however, did not attain any notable acceptance and as late as 1950, there was only one lecture on the importance of this concept at the Paris cancer conference.

Huggins established the fact that the functioning of the prostate gland was entirely dependent on the production of male sex hormones or androgens in the testicles.

What was especially important was the fact that he also proved that female sex hormones, estrogens, could neutralize the androgenic reaction and thereby bring about atrophy of the prostate, the institute said.

The observations, which Huggins made, paved the way for the treatment of one of our most common species of cancer, the one most frequent in males.

Inventive Americans Have Patent Office in Paper Swirl

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Americans are the most inventive people in the world and they've got the U.S. Patent Office swirling in a paper swirl.

The end of American inventiveness isn't in sight but the Patent Office already has taken steps to ease its paper crush by ordering the installation of a $2 million microfilm system for patent documents.

A record 66,586 patents were issued during the fiscal year which ended June 30—the vast majority of them to Americans—and the figure this year is expected to exceed 70,000.

That's a far cry from the Patent Office's first year of operation when only three were issued—the first on July 31, 1790, to Samuel Hopkins of Pittsford, Vt., for an improvement in "the making of pot ash and pearl ash by a new apparatus and process."

Since 1836 when the current numbering system began, the office has issued 3,278,942 patent numbers—the latest Tuesday to Hoel L. Bowditch of Foxboro, Mass., for an invention called "industrial chart recorder with special linking pen."

One problem still nagging the Patent Office, in addition to the acres of documents it must keep on file, is the time it takes to process patent applications, which are being filed at a rate approaching 100,000 yearly.

The average time has been reduced from 3½ to 2½ years with a goal of six months by 1970.

The office figures its inventories of patent copies cover more than two acres of storage space. It receives more than 75,000 orders daily for these copies from business, industrial, scientific and technical sources throughout the world.

The new microfilm system, scheduled to go into operation in June 1968, will relieve much of this paper burden and even save the taxpayers about $500,000 annually, the office says.

The system will produce, on order, a printed paper copy of an individual patent and make available for public inspection microfilm files of patents arranged by subject matter.

Scientists Work on New Cancer Cure

LONDON (AP)—A group of British scientists is working on a new radiation machine, using neutral beams, to cure cancer.

Dr. John H. Wood, head of the project, said today "looks like a 50-50 bet to cure cancer."

Scientists at the electronics research laboratory at Herfordshire, say they believe their idea will prove more effective than X rays in treating many forms of cancer.

James D. L. H. Wood, heading the project, said: "We cannot say definitely whether it will be a cure yet, but it looks like a 50-50 bet. It will take about three years to develop a neutron generating tube with the high-power output required."

The scientists expect to have a machine complete enough to install in an ordinary radiotherapy treatment room.

Wood said they are using nuclear reaction characteristics of hydrogen bombs to attack cancer with beams of high-energy neutrons. The beams are produced in a vacuum tube part metal and part glass. The neutron generator will be enclosed in 14 inches of steel with a small opening for the neutron beam.

Wood said high-power output was needed so treatment could be cut to a few minutes, the maximum time tolerable to a conscious patient.

Carrier Plane Crashes, Five Crewmen Die

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — A troop carrier plane from Dyess Air Force Base crashed and burned in a brushy pasture Wednesday night, and five of the six crewmen were killed.

The six-man crew, including Capt. Breze, pulled the lone survivor from the wreckage on the 6800th March 75 miles northwest of Abilene. The injured airman was reported in critical condition.

Sheriff E. W. Haller of Guthrie, nine miles north of where the C-130 Hercules transport went down, said persons reaching the scene first found two bodies.

A ground party from Dyess located the other three bodies in a search through thick mesquite brush near U.S. 81.

Authorities said the deaths were the first in the 516th Troop Carrier Wing since it was formed at Dyess in 1955.

The accident occurred approximately one mile west of Murtaugh on U.S. Highway 30 when the truck drifted over the center line and sideswiped the Schulz vehicle, according to Twin Falls County sheriff's officials. No injuries were reported.

Concept of Missile-Firing Submarine No Longer Joke

By TOM TIEDE
AT POLK (NEA) — Everybody laughed when the concept of a missile-firing submarine was first proposed. Replicas said it was impossible.

And now nobody's laughing especially not the advocates of the United States.

Indeed, the missile-loaded Polaris submarine is hardly a glib matter. One and one-half football fields in length, it is perhaps the most terrifying package of science and steel ever devised.

It weighs 16 million pounds but can maneuver in as little as 100 feet of water with the handling and speed of a small automobile. It can circle the world without surfacing. It can swim any ocean without detection. It can manufacture its own air, its own water and its own propulsion power.

But even more awesome is the ship's payload. Sixteen missiles, each 30 feet long and as heavy as a railroad Pullman, are propped in the craft's belly. Any one of them can, in a half-hour's time, streak across continent or ocean to strike and destroy the largest city on either the Russian or Chinese map.

So technically developed is the ship, in fact, so accurate and dependable, that the weapon may have only one potential limitation and that is man himself. As it stands today, the Polaris is a 1600-million-worth of inertia without its crew. They push the buttons, they read the dials, they wiggle the rudder.

Nixon, Evans Campaign for Mrs. Powers

OLYMPIA (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Dan Evans will be in Spokane Oct. 27 to campaign for Mrs. Dorothy Powers, Republican nominee for Congress, the state GOP chairman announced Wednesday.

Mrs. Powers is campaigning against incumbent Democratic Congressman Thomas Foley for the 5th Congressional District office.

C. Montgomery Johnson, GOP state chairman, said Nixon would fly to Spokane from Seattle after appearing at a fund-raising affair in the Puget Sound city.

Johnson said earlier that Nixon would appear at a morning fund-raising reception in Tacoma Oct. 27, then continue to Seattle the same day.

Nixon is to arrive in Spokane at 4:10 p.m. for a joint news conference with Evans and Mrs. Powers.

Johnson said Nixon decided to extend his Oct. 27 schedule to include Spokane "after it became evident that the people of the 5th Congressional District seemed prepared to replace their freshman incumbent congressman with someone more qualified to represent them."

Mrs. Powers received 21,218 votes in the Sept. 20 primary to 26,191 for Foley. The combined vote of Mrs. Powers and two other Republican candidates totaled 39,595, or 60.18 per cent of the vote cast in the district for the primary.

Nixon will fly to Boise from Spokane for appearances in behalf of Idaho GOP candidates, and Evans will remain in Spokane to campaign in behalf of Mrs. Powers and take care of other engagements there, Johnson said.

Wendell Lodge To Fete Boise

WENDELL — Plans were discussed for the entertaining Idaho Lodge No. 1, AP and AM, police, at the Monday evening meeting.

Phil Hurrell, worshipful master, will announce the date selected. The return visit to Boise lodge will be held in November, with the date to be announced.

During these visits the past masters of the lodges will be in charge of the lodge work.

The sick and visiting committees reported the death of Frank Sikes, Ellers, the brother-in-law of Albert Lancaster, and A. A. "Mort" O'Neil, brother of H. S. Lamb.

Improvement of the hall and grounds was discussed. John Wert and Willard Wert served refreshments.

But what of tomorrow? "It's hard to predict," says Frank McMullen, captain of the USS Polk. "However, even our present nuclear subs are highly self-sufficient. The hardware itself is capable of staying underwater for years at a time but, of course, the men cannot."

Thus the possibility is obvious, at least to some—unmanned underwater robot fleets capable of indefinite submersion and uninterrupted entry duty. The idea may not be as extravagant as it sounds. Already the Polaris project is more than man-made. Millions of dollars' worth of computers now wink gaily in these boats, aiming missiles, directing routes and checking against human mistakes.

One mechanical brain system, for example, has more than five miles of cables requiring 5,000 different connections to set it working; once warmed up, it can spew out calculations at the rate of 2,000 per second and will effr only about once in 30 million chances.

Another General Electric computer complex is so infinitely advanced it can give instant target angles from moving subs and is reliable enough that the shell in fact, sees more problems than probability. "For one thing," he says, "computers need human maintenance."

Clearly the instrumentation is staggering. And while it is true these ship computers cannot operate without crew, neither can the crew operate without computers.

Still, nobody's turning in his sea bag yet. Skipper McMullen, in fact, sees more problems than probability. "For one thing," he says, "computers need human maintenance."

How about computers replacing computers? "I hope not," he says. "Why? That's a good question."

Many Navy types agree with McMullen's skepticism. They indicate that finance alone prohibits a robot sub. Polaris, as example, cost $12 billion to develop, a sum which if stacked in dollar bills would reach 1,000 miles into space.

The idea of ultimate submarine computerization, they say, would need at least one large machine, whose job it would be to manufacture all of the expensive money.

In short, it's impossible.

Draft Test Applications Are Available

Applications for the Selective Service college qualification test are now available at all Selective Service local boards throughout Idaho. Mr. George B. Bennett, state director of Selective Service for Idaho, announced Tuesday.

Applications must be postmarked not later than midnight Oct. 21. The tests will be given at the College of Southern Idaho, Pocatello; Idaho State University, Ricks College in Rexburg, Boise College, College of Idaho in Caldwell and North Idaho Junior College in Coeur d'Alene on Nov. 18 and 19.

The test is not mandatory for college students, but those desiring student deferments are advised to take it. Scores made on the tests provide local draft boards with evidence of aptitude for continued undergraduate and graduate studies, Bennett noted.

The scores themselves will not determine eligibility for deferment, but are considered with other information in the registrant's file in determining eligibility. Students not taking the test will be judged on the basis of grades and class standing.

Two Coal Augers Sold by Trustees

SHOSHONE—Two coal augers belonging to the local school system were sold to Idaho Grange Warehouse at the regular school board meeting Monday night.

The augers were no longer needed at the high school building, which was converted to oil heat, trustees explained.

Mrs. Mary Dallas reported on the state school trustees meeting she attended in Twin Falls last month.

The board voted to buy a mobile projector for $150.00 from Grose Drug store, to be used by the athletic department.

They also decided to purchase new uniforms for the junior high school athletic department.

THE JUNIOR REALM

Q. I know a boy who has many fine talents but I am always uneasy when I am in his presence because he is domineering and high brow. Even so, I would really like to be his friend and be close enough to him to understand him. How does a girl go about this? Robin, 17.

A. Panelists: Molly Fields, high school, Virginia; Cheryl Fiero, high school, Minnesota; Michael High, college, Oklahoma; Thomas Scrivner, high school, Wisconsin.

If you set your mind and heart on knowing him, and you will have a mutual friend put in a word or two for you, we think that you will soon learn what he is hiding from. Arrogant people are usually trying to forget something or somebody. You must obviously figure out why he has this attitude after you have gotten to know him better.

Could it be that he is trying to hide an inferiority complex? He may be so concerned with the impression he is making in front of others that he goes completely overboard trying to make a favorable one.

One good way to break this is to ask him to help you with your problems. Have some good ones outlined before you approach this subject to him, including an inferiority complex, arrogance and make his problems your problems.

You may learn that the source of his problem is a lack of self confidence. It is not his fault, but his ideas, if they are horrible, and be willing to listen to him for long periods of time, because the kind of boy you describe is never bored by talking about himself. When he finds that you respect him enough to ask for his help and advice, you will have a friend, because ego usually runs that way.

One of the hardest things for a high school student to accept is a person who is high brow and domineering. Obviously the charms in this boy must be many for you to overlook these very troublesome faults. If these qualities in him do not disappear, then you must assert yourself and unequivocally state what you expect from a friend and what you think of his charms-and-his-bad-habits.

Unfortunately, throughout this task and the challenge rests in your hands. To help him must be very trying times for you—but you should determine to stick with the job until it is done if you decide that he is worth the bother and pains.

You can probably get him to forsake his odd ways if you compliment him on other parts of his personality, on his talents, etc. When he finds that you are interested in him for his own sake, you will probably have a real friend and one who will probably see the light of his conduct.

Population Rises 70 Million Without Increase in Food

ROME (AP) — World population rose by 70 million in the past year without an increase in food to feed them. The U. N. Food and Agriculture Organization said today there was an average of 2 per cent less food for everyone on earth.

This raised fears that the gap between population and food production would increase and that mankind is moving deeper into its worst hunger crisis.

FAO's report on the state of food and agriculture for 1965-66 found serious reductions in food output in parts of the world where malnutrition already is worst.

"Any remaining complacency about the food and agriculture situation must surely have been dispelled by the events of the past year," said Director General B. R. Sen.

"But for good harvests in North America, world production would have fallen by 2 per cent in the past year, and in the developing regions except the Near East, food production is estimated to have fallen by 2 per cent in total and 4 to 5 per cent on a per capita basis.

"The poor harvests of 1965-66 are all the more serious since they came not in the midst of plenty but after a long period in which production has only barely kept up with the rapidly mounting population.

"When millions of people are already inadequately nourished there is little if any margin against the effects of a bad season."

The FAO report said international trade, and particularly the huge grain imports by the Soviet Union and mainland China, had reduced the formerly huge grain surpluses of North America to their lowest level in the period of acute shortage.

"Thus," Sen said, "the world food situation is now more precarious than at any time since the period of acute shortage immediately after the second World War. Because of the depletion of stocks, the world has become much more dependent on current production, and hence on weather conditions."

"It is therefore with some anxiety that we await the outcome of the 1966-67 harvests."

At the luncheon there will be reports on the theme, "New Concepts of Library Service," Mrs. Pat Klingner, Gooding, will report on "Libraries of the Future."

Mrs. Martha Jane Freeman, Jerome, will review "Public Libraries in British Columbia," a survey of public libraries in sources with recommendations for improved services.

Mrs. Irene Hinniger, Twin Falls, will discuss "A Library State for Columbia" which is a proposed total library network in a planned community belt in Idaho.

Following a discussion of the "Library Trustee's Role in Idaho" there will be progress reports from the librarians present. Helen Miller, state librarian, and members of her staff will lead a discussion on state-wide library planning with an emphasis on library construction, state legislation, and new federal programs for public libraries.

Librarians and trustees from Burley, Oakley, Jerome, Shoshone, Richfield, Rupert, Ellettsburg, Hagerman, Wendell, Gooding, Buhl, Hooten, and Twin Falls are expected to attend.

City, county and school officials, candidates for public office, and interested citizens may also attend the workshop and should call Mrs. Warko at the Burley Public Library for a luncheon reservation.

Other workshops will be held in Coeur d'Alene, Pocatello, Nampa, Rexburg, and Lewiston.

EVENT PLANNED
BURLEY — Mrs. Cecil Andrus, wife of the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, will be honored at a luncheon from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Friday in the Chamber of Commerce.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Don Curtis, Mrs. Gertrude C. Hatch and Mrs. Robert Saxby.

Cake Stolen

GLOBE, Ariz. (AP) — GLOBE, Ariz. — Louis Avila, 22, was married and the guests danced happily. But, Georgia's parents reported later to police, a theft made off with the three-tier, $20 wedding cake complete with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

This fixed "make-up" is important to convenient reading. It becomes used to it. It comes home with it. When we buy a newspaper in a city away from home it may seem strange and foreign to us. Our hometown newspaper is like a close friend — a member of the family.

A good rule is to start your newspaper reading at the department which satisfies most — whether it is sports, social, financial or any other section.

When a man is both hungry and thirsty, he will drink before he eats. Having drunk, he enjoys his food more.

Once the compelling interests are satisfied, motivation for further reading changes. Now, we are looking for an answer to the question, "What's new?" And generally we turn to page one because in making up the news, editors have tried to present on the first page the stories they think are of the most importance to the most readers.

The more any person reads about events the more interested he is bound to become in them. The more informed he becomes, the more he feels he is actually a part of them. That is why it is so vital in our democracy to strive to develop interest in political and governmental affairs at all levels.

There is no easier way to do this than newspaper reading. In fact, there is no other convenient way to keep abreast of local affairs.

An added benefit accrues to the regular newspaper reader. The more he is informed and interested in events, the more interesting life is to those around him.

It is necessary to develop critical judgment, to learn to read facts as fact, someone's opinion as opinion.

Facts are important, and the newspapers deal principally in facts. However, if the student is to gain insight into the many problems that confront the world he lives in, the problems he must face later, he must know what other people do and think about these facts.

We might hear a statement such as this: "I am going to join the army because I am going to be a pilot."

If the reader had analyzed carefully the story he had read, he would have known that a government official made the statement that the pensions should be cut. The newspaper was quoting what the official said; the reader considered it a fact.

This should be a rule — whenever we read a news story, we must discern which part is reported as fact and which part is someone's opinion related to these facts.

Editors are constantly on guard against hidden opinions in news stories. Statements and opinions by others are so labeled, but the careless newspaper reader may confuse them. The newspaper's own opinions generally are confined to the editorial page.

The importance of reading opinions needs to be emphasized. When a newspaper story reports the facts concerning an issue, the story often contains statements regarding the facts, made by persons in authority. These are necessarily limited in scope because stories are edited to do the most possible job of informing in the least amount of space. News stories on a single subject often appear as a sequence over a period of days.

Therefore, to become fully informed, it is necessary to follow the subject from day to day until it is exhausted.

In the study of the editorial page, it is necessary to consider its function. Any newspaper worth its salt must stand for something. A publisher has the right and considers it his duty, to take a stand on any issue of importance. He does this every day, but he does it on the editorial page where every reader will know it is his opinion, or the opinion of his editorial staff.

No one can intelligently make up his mind regarding any issue without knowing other people's opinions on the subject. Readers look to the newspaper for its opinions, not necessarily to accept them, but to guide the readers in forming their own opinions.

The editorial page is not a one-way street. You will notice that space is given to readers' opinions, usually on the editorial page. It has become common practice for the publisher to include some inspirational material as the newspaper chooses to publish.

Newspaper Should Be Read Systematically

To develop a broad interest in contemporary affairs, a student should go about his newspaper reading in a systematic way. This reading should include the articles and editorials that at first seem to be foreign to his everyday interests and pursuits. Once this broad interest is developed he will absorb his classroom work more readily, because names, places and events will be more meaningful than mere words in a textbook.

There is no "best" way to develop a systematic way of reading the newspaper. It depends upon the individual, his primary interests and objectives. We find that most readers turn first to departments or pages of their newspaper which interest them most. This method is recommended. Instead of reading from front page to back as you would a novel.

Newspapers are edited and arranged to make selective reading easy and convenient. Most have a more or less fixed style and order in their presentation of various types of news — such as sports, financial, features, comics, etc.

This fixed "make-up" is important to convenient reading. It becomes used to it. It comes home with it. When we buy a newspaper in a city away from home it may seem strange and foreign to us. Our hometown newspaper is like a close friend — a member of the family.

A good rule is to start your newspaper reading at the department which satisfies most — whether it is sports, social, financial or any other section.

Where was the fire? Who was married? The newspaper records the vital statistics of the community, the social life of the people. Even beyond this, the newspaper is the "messenger" for every worthwhile organization which must get its message before the people in order to succeed in its undertaking.

Churches, schools, fraternal organizations, character-building agencies and others reach the community through newspapers. This is the newspaper's responsibility to its readers and the community it serves. Only a media contribute, but only in the printed page, with its mass readability, can the job be done in detail.

Advertisers invest about $4.5 billion in newspaper advertising in a single year. The reason for this vast expenditure is the tremendous mass penetration of newspapers into the homes of every community in the country.

Advertising in our newspapers falls into three general classifications:

1. National advertising which is prepared and published in newspapers by manufacturers or distributors of products. These advertisements are designed to inform the reader about products, including new ones, their points of superiority, and/or to keep a product name before the public.
2. Local retail advertising is, among other things, an important service to the newspaper reader because it tells him to decide the merits of public where and when he can obtain items and the price he will pay.
3. Want ads are the market sound judgment, they must have facts before them not only men and individuals who as the government would have merchandise or services to them put, but also those who sell. Want ads help find lost or disagree with the government (sells and pets, help find lost or disagree with the government).

Suspended

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Seventy-one Hawthorne Junior High school boys were suspended for a day this week for wearing old-fashioned clothing.

Principal W. Dale Higdon sent the girls home after a "lineup" at the school in the school auditorium.

Higdon said he was enforcing school board rules that classroom dress must be appropriate.

"When three-quarters of their list is showing when they sit down, I think that dress is too short," Higdon said.
